The President Says

I had a letter Monday from Major General John F. Williams, the Chief of the National Guard Bureau of the War Department at Washington, from which I quote the following paragraph:

"I recently saw the Maryville boys at Fort Jackson, South Carolina, and they certainly are making a reputation for themselves. You probably know that they had the distinction of being the Battery selected to fire the salute for the President when he visited Jackson recently."

I could not write as good a "President Says" article.

Ted Young Would Be Nominated for Student President

Has Had Wide Experience Both in College and Outside of It.

Again it is time for the Student body to consider the candidates and choose nominees for the office of President of the Student Government Association. As this is the most important elective office the student body has to offer, all students should acquaint themselves with the merits of those who have filed for the office so that they may choose the one who will give the most capable and efficient administration of the office.

Ted Young, who on Tuesday, April 8, filed for the office of President of the student body, is known to most of the students as a genial young man with a quietly industrious manner who is prominent in the college musical organizations. He is well known as President of the College band, treasurer of the dance band, and as a member of the orchestra and chorus.

Most of the student body does not know that Ted Young spent 9 successful years in the business field before entering College here, where he is obtaining majors in Industrial Arts and Music. Mr. Young has had experience as an electrician, radio repair man, diesel engineer, and refrigeration engineer. He was formerly a supervisor at the N. Y. A. quad.

As a Junior Class representative in the Student Senate, of which he is parliamentarian, Ted Young has been

He was recently selected as an alternate to the naval academy at Annapolis.

Compulsory chapel attendance is threatened at the University of Rochester as the result of poor attendance at weekly chapel.

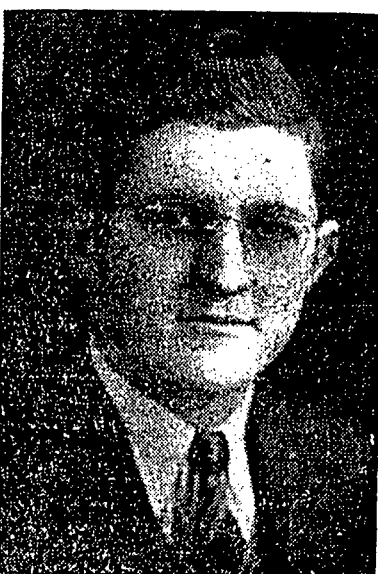

Frances Pyle was a visitor at her home in Pattonsburg Saturday and Sunday.

Two Non-Fraternity and Two Fraternity People Are Seeking Office.

No Excitement Here Yet

Nominations Will Be Made Next Week in General Assembly Called for Purpose.

This week is an important week in College politics. It is the week when all candidates for president and vice-president of the Student Government Association must file their names with the Registrar, Mr. R. E. Baldwin.

Four students seeking offices in the Student Government Association have filed their names with the Registrar of the College. This filing is done in accordance with Article VI of the Constitution of the Student Government Association for nomination for the positions of president and vice-president of the Student Government Association, at the nomination convention to be held next week at a general assembly called by the present president of the student body, Robert Turner.

The candidates announced by Mr. Baldwin are Mary Frances McCaffrey, Wallace Oursler, Wes McClaren and Ted Young. Mr. Oursler and Mr. Young have filed as candidates to become nominees for the presidential position and Miss McCaffrey and Mr. McClaren for the vice-presidency.

Little excitement is evident upon the campus. The four people have filed for the offices. Campaign managers have probably been selected, though at present their identity has not been announced. As things seem to be shaping up, the election will be a contest between Greek-letter supporters and independents.

Freshman Has Record

Janice Bengtson, a freshman here at the College, has attended Sunday School every Sunday for the past four years. She estimated that she has not missed being present at Sunday morning services more than five or six times during her entire life. Miss Bengtson presented the general outline for the study of the prophets at the Sunday Morning Student Services March 23.

Of 581 men and women who have earned doctoral degrees at New York university school of education in the last decade, 16 are now college presidents.

Aileen White's sister from Ridgeway was a guest at Residence Hall Saturday and Sunday.

Offices Carry Responsibilities

"Mr. Baldwin, I wish to file my name as a candidate for the office of President of the Student Government Association subject to the vote of the student body in the forthcoming spring election." The person who thus addresses the Registrar of the College projects himself into the political fortunes of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College which contests become more intense with rivalry and interest each year.

The office of President of the Student Government Association is often looked upon as a resting place for hard-won laurels, but those who have filled this important position in the past would likely label such thinking as disdainful. To those who have watched with even slight surveillance, the manifold tasks and duties of this office serve as ample notice for the political aspirant to withhold his hat from the ring unless he wants a great amount of hard work ahead.

In the Student Handbook, Article IX of the Constitution, the duties of the President are enumerated. They are namely; To call and preside at all meetings of the Association; to preside at all meetings of the Student Senate; to call special meetings of the Senate; to appoint all standing and special committees; and to execute all other duties common to this executive office not otherwise provided for in this Constitution.

At first glance these duties when printed upon paper may appear to be slight, but Mr. Robert Turner, present President, and those who have served before him will attest to the fact that they are anything but trivial. Moreover, the office is not to be looked upon as a proving ground of experience. No aspirant who has not proved his mettle before assuming the office could expect it to unfold his possibilities.

The tasks of this year's President have been increased extensively with the opening of the Student Center and its accompanying responsibilities and problems. No other student office is quite so demanding of the time, efforts, and abilities as is that of the president. While he has able help from the class officers and the Student Senate, yet he must be the dynamo in the activity of the Student Government Association.

An expository attempt to explain the importance of this office would not be directed necessarily toward discouraging the lethargic student from running for office, but, rather to incite the student body to select able and qualified students to serve them and fulfill the demanding duties which are relegated to them. To paraphrase into the vernacular of the day, the office of President of the Student Government Association requires an "Extra" on "Extra-Curricular."

OUR DEMOCRATIC WAY OF LIFE

In these days during which thoughts of the democratic way of living are uppermost in the minds of both its defenders and opposers, it may be well for each of us to check up on our own attitudes and actions to determine our contribution to that way of life. It may be well for us to discover whether our contribution has been of any real value, and to learn whether that contribution is the product of the most worthy effort of which we are capable.

Of all the privileges which are enjoyed by us as students and as citizens of the United States, perhaps one of the greatest is the privilege we have of choosing as our leaders and those who are to represent us in making the rules of government by which we are to abide those whom we feel are able to execute the task assigned them most efficiently and acceptably. Perhaps the very fact that it has always been our privilege to choose has caused us to forget that it is also our responsibility and that the tasks we are asking those we choose to perform are far more difficult and important than many of us realize.

Quite soon we are to have the opportunity of exercising our right to select our own representatives to work as the legislative and executive body of our student group. It is not only right but of necessity an integral part of the democratic way.

The responsibility that is yours and mine in selecting a student president and vice-president for the coming year is perhaps more serious than we think. It is to those we choose to whom we must look during the following year for the formation of policies and plans that will make the student body a vital and effective force on the campus. To them we must look for aid in securing growth and lacrima among the students rather than stagnation and deterioration. It is they who will have the responsibility of directing the Student Senate in its attempt to formulate laws that will cause the Student Government Association to be operated more effectively and more efficiently. To them goes the responsibility of aiding the administration in making this school most beneficial to all, most beautiful, and most comfortable. They are the link which binds the administration to the student body without which there could not exist the democracy which now prevails.

In the light of these considerations let us each resolve to weigh carefully the qualifications and abilities of every candidate and choose accordingly. Popularity does not always constitute efficiency and this is definitely not a popularity contest. This is a contest in which we cannot afford to let sentiment overrule our judgment. We must choose and choose wisely the persons who, according to our best judgment, are most capable of carrying the load.

Convention Date Set

The nominating convention at which candidates for election to the offices of president and vice-president of the Student Government Association will be held Thursday of next week at 10:15 o'clock.

Dear
Diary,

There's nothing like a good, exciting election, I always say. Alice is in a state of nervous collapse over the coming school elections; she's done enough personal campaigning to make Willkie look like a deaf mute with both arms in slings. Harvey Davis is my man for president, but Alice doesn't know anyone but Wallace Oursler is running. Tonight I was all settled to do my English when she came barging in and began to rave about what a Utopia STC will be if Oursler is elected. She spent a valuable two hours trying to convince me that he is practically Superman's brother and promised me everything from the blonde she met in St. Joe Sunday to her new spring hat if I'd change my vote, but I stick to Davis. A few unfriendly words were exchanged when neither of us would admit that the other's candidate was anything more than a low type moron, but I can't help it because Alice is so stubborn. She is really intimate spiritual kin to a long line of Missouri mules. Even when I try to explain the true facts to her she won't see how they are. It wouldn't be quite so bad if she didn't have such a temper, but I have to watch my tone and language for fear of having them cut off by a high speed pillow at close range. I did get her to make a small bet, though. She looked awfully silly standing on a table in the Granada singing "God Bless America" the night Roosevelt was inaugurated, but she's going to look a lot sillier with one eyebrow shaved off.

Many Negro Youth
Are NYA Employees

National Youth Administrator Aubrey Williams today announced the release of a new NYA publication entitled, "The Tenth Youth."

"Every tenth youth on the National Youth Administration program is a Negro youth," Williams said. "During the last fiscal year 130,000 different Negro boys and girls were employed in NYA part-time jobs. Our most recent figures show that a total of 63,922 Negro youth were employed on our out-of-school projects during the single week ending February 22, 1941, making the number of Negro youth workers thirteen per cent of the 490,000 youth employed for this week. During December, 1939, only ten per cent of NYA youth employees were Negroes."

"It is clear, therefore, that Negro youth not only have shared in the expansion of NYA employment in connection with National Defense but have actually increased their representation on the out-of-school work program."

"The Tenth Youth" describes the work which the National Youth Administration is doing and has done for Negro young people since the NYA was established in 1935. At the very beginning, a Division of Negro Affairs was established as an integral part of the organization to insure the integration and complete participation of Negro youth in every phase of the program. Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, Director of the Division of Negro Affairs, and members of her staff have helped formulate the policies under which Negro young people have received a fair share of the benefits available to high school, college and graduate students and of the work experience provided for out-of-school youth to earn while they learn to work. Since the NYA program began to operate in June, 1935, about 300,000 Negro youth have received wages from the National Youth Administration for part-time work to fit them for employment in private industry.

Negro young people employed on the NYA student work program are assisting in classrooms, laboratories, museums, on research and statistical studies; working in the libraries; constructing classroom models and apparatus; and tutoring physically handicapped students.

About ten per cent of the Negro youth employed by NYA are doing clerical and general office work. About twenty per cent are serving as assistants to professional recreation and health workers. Another twenty per cent are gaining experience in various types of shop work, in wood-working, sheetmetal, auto mechanics, and machine shop practice, or making and repairing clothing. About ten per cent, mostly girls, prepare school lunches and assist in nursery schools and other ten per cent work on "resident projects" where youth live together, receiving subsistence and a small cash wage in return for their work.

In her introduction to "The Tenth Youth" Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune states that "These young people are not looking for a royal road to riches. They are looking for jobs—opportunity to do the things they are capable of doing. The National Youth Administration is preparing youth for their place in every phase of our program for National Defense."

Quotable Quotes

"Teaching furnishes a very great opportunity to serve mankind. Woe unto the man who leads youth toward destruction. Blessed be the man who guides the growth of youth into men and women of beautiful characters."
—A Freshman.

"Love serves a similar purpose to the person possessing it as throw-rugs serve to the rug upon which they are laid. The throw-rugs are to catch the dirt so that the main rug stays clean and bright. Similarly, love endures unkind treatment which would seem to hurt the person. Through love the person keeps a rosy attitude and his character is not blotched. Pretty throw-rugs tend to beautify the large rug. In a like manner love beautifies one's character."
—A Freshman.

The Stroller

The Stroller was so busy on Senior Day he had little time to stroll, but while he ate lunch he listened to the line of talk handed out by the Bookstore boys to the pretty senior girls. It plain to be seen that had Martha not been there to see that senior boys got attention, the boys might have gone away without being served.

Trailing one of the guides with his flock, the Stroller was struck with the solicitous attitude the guide—if he did not hate to mention names, he would say it was Leo Strohm. One of the pretty senior girls caught her veil on a bush; Leo rushed to her assistance, but he did not rush about disentangling it.

It is a good thing it rained on Monday, else the Stroller would never have known how charming Harold Hull can be under an umbrella, nor how pretty Dean Walker's hat could be.

The Stroller hears that the girls of Residence Hall have been getting some rest this week, but Margaret McLaughlin doesn't seem to want rest, she'd rather be tired, she says.

Mr. W. T. Garrett should feel complimented upon his talk at Sunday Morning Hour. When it was over, the Stroller overheard Denny Davidson say, "Oops! I almost clapped!"

The Stroller wants to know why Martha Jane Hamilton and Leason Wilson's lead and take those dates the Warrensburg Date Bureau so obligingly lined up for them during the International Relations conference at Warrensburg? Better "look before you leap" next time, girls, especially before signing anything.

One of the sorrows of the Stroller is that he did not hear Jack Langston's speech on "In the Spring a Young Man's Fancy." The Stroller cut class that morning—Moral: Don't cut class; you might miss something.

Coach Milner's Men Begin Spring Football Practice

Study of New Rules Keep Gridsters Busy; Some New Men Are Needed.

Holes Left by Graduates

Conference Schedule for Next Season Has Not Been Completed.

Interrupted by frequent showers, spring football practice is proceeding slowly, but the enthusiasm is not dampened by the weather. Thirty five men have reported to Coach Ryland Milner and at present he is concerned with finding some one to fill the center position and a few passers and punters. Absence of this year's seniors leaves vacancies in these spots. Two lettermen, Tony Rizzo and Floyd Reno, are out for the track squad and will not be on the gridiron until next fall.

Coach Milner is experimenting with the T formation, but does not expect to use it to any extent next year. He is also acquainting the boys with the several changes in grid rules for next year. Three of the major changes are:

1. Elimination of the touchback on incomplete forward passes into the end zone on fourth down.
2. Permitting free substitution at any time (under the old rule the same player could not be substituted twice in the same quarter.)
3. Allowing the ball to be handed forward at any point behind the line of scrimmage and to any player.

The boys who are out for practice are:

Ends—Russell, Frank Meyers, Totaritas, Hellerich Mooney;
Tackles—Thompson, Perston, Ellison, Whitfield, Farrell, Rollins and Strange;

Guards—E. Meyers, Meadows, Hinkley, Gregory, Wren, Pulley Slaughter, and McClinton.

Centers—Flamming and Yeaman;

Backfield—Schottel, Paxson, Yasinski, Bennett, Schamagel, Wilson, McKim, Fisher, Padilla, Fletcher, Gates, Ross, Ruth, and Boswell.

While the schedule for next fall has not been completed it is probable that there will be games with Washington University of St. Louis, and the Chadron Nebraska Teachers. The conference schedule also has not been completed.

Finnish Fisherman Attends University

EUGENE, OREGON — (ACP) — "Mina menen koulun etta saan lissa tietoa," Jaakko Paakkola, 53-year-old Finnish fisherman and University of Oregon junior, replied when asked why he had chosen to return for a sixth year of university education.

Translated, Jaakko's reply was, "I attend school to obtain more knowledge."

Occupied as an expert gill net salmon fisherman on the Columbia and Sluslaw rivers during the fishing season, Jaakko takes time out for college each winter term. He has made classrooms and the library his "home" on the campus.

Leaving his father's farm and fishery in Finland at the age of 17, Jaakko moved to Oregon, where he found jobs in the lumbering and fishing industries. Years of hard work as a lumberjack and fisherman have not aged Jaakko. He has retained a youth's agility and an interest in education.

He attended Oregon State college for two years, then switched to the University of Oregon. He has taken related courses in economics, sociology, English, journalism, public speaking and psychology.

Jaakko employs an unusual method of increasing his limited English vocabulary. This system includes a room-length chart, across the top of which he has lettered the alphabet at regular intervals. Every evening before retiring, he places on the chart new and difficult words which

Biblical Story Is Applied to Present

"You as students have certain responsibilities to your friends, your parents, and your neighbors. What are you going to do about them?" was the question asked by Mr. Garrett in his talk on Elijah at the Sunday morning hour, April 6. This lecture was one of a series on the prophets of the Old Testament given each Sunday morning in the Horace Mann Auditorium at 9:30.

Mr. Garrett gave a review of the interesting story of Elijah and his experiences with King Ahab, Queen Jezebel, and the people of Israel. No crime was too terrible for the queen to include in her plans if she and Ahab coveted those things which did not belong to them. For these sins Elijah had the strength of character to rebuke their acts and pronounce a terrible curse upon them. Consequently, he was considered a trouble maker and his life was in danger many times. Nothing could stop him in doing his duty for his God and his people in turning them back to the right.

In applying this Biblical story to the lives of youth today Mr. Garrett stated that college people may become like those in Israel, forget their responsibilities, violate the laws of nature, and fail to treat life seriously. But just as surely as those people were punished so will folks today. Elijah stuck to his responsibilities and the challenge to the youth of today is whether or not they can stick to theirs.

Other special numbers of the Sunday Morning Hour were presented by Jesse Lundy who read "Eternal Values", and Dorothy Lee Montgomery who rendered a vocal solo.

Jaakko does not limit himself to textbook reading, for he spends most of his time with books of special interest. Last year, to quench the thirst for knowledge, Jaakko purchased a $200 set of books written in Finnish, covering the studies of history and science.

For extra-curricular activities, writing and speech-making are of primary interest to Oregon's elderly student. For 20 years he has been a regular correspondent for a daily Finnish newspaper at Duluth, Minn., and last year he made practical use of his academic public speaking study in discussing the Russo-Finnish conflict before various groups.

Bearcats Swamp Jewell Runners

Maryville Teachers Win Dual Meet in Rain by 102 to 34 Score.

Taking 12 of 16 first places and sweeping three events the Maryville Teachers swamped the William Jewell track team of Liberty 102 to 34 here Monday in a downpour of rain and on a soggy track and field. It was the first outdoor meet of the season and was a feature of the district senior day festivities of the STC.

Visitors at the meet huddled on the upper rows of seats in the bleachers for some of the races but the downpour finally drove most of the crowd to their cars. However, the meet went on and finally had a breathing spell from the rain.

Although Maryville captured the bulk of the events, Jewell's Alexander was the biggest point winner. He took three of Liberty's four first places, winning the high and low hurdles and the broad jump and taking third in the 100 yard dash for a total of 16 points. Baker won the other first place for Jewell, just barely winning the javelin, the last event on the program, with a toss of 164 feet 4 1/4 inches over Yasinski's toss of 163 feet 8 1/4 inches.

The board jump also went to Jewell by a narrow margin, Alexander leaping 21 feet 4 1/4 inches as compared to a leap of 21 feet 3 1/4 inches by Davis of Maryville.

A Three-Way Tie

Wayne Taylor, Maryville's ace miler, was still wearing civies yesterday, recuperating from a sprained ankle. However, Fourt came through to win the distance races for Maryville, being one of the double-winners of the day. He took the mile and two mile runs. Maryville swept all nine points in three events, the half mile, 2 mile and high jump. Three Bearcats got to 5 feet 5 inches in the high jump, and let it go at that for a three-way tie.

Barton, the Bearcat sprinter, also was a double winner. He took the 100 and 200 yard dashes and then ran a leg on the 880 yard relay for a total of 11 1/2 points.

Schottel racked up ten points for Maryville, winning the shot and discus events. Darr of the Bearcats won the 440, took second in the pole vault and ran a leg on the mile relay for 9 1/2 points.

Maryville won both relays by wide margins. Coach Wilbur Stalcup, in making a last minute selection for the mile relay, selected Overstreet, Kurtright, Darr and Murphy. The first two runners kept slightly ahead of their Jewell opponents and then Darr and Murphy had easy sailing. Reno, Thompson, Sanders and Barton had little trouble in winning the half mile baton carrying event which went in 1:37, considered good time for the condition of the track.

The summaries:

College Group Attends Palm Services at Abbey

About 50 students and Miss Eileen Elliott, Miss Day Weems and Miss Marian B. Lippitt, chaperones, attended services at the Benedictine Abbey at Conception and the Convent at Clyde, on Palm Sunday, April 6. The Y. M.-Y. W. C. A. sponsored the trip which was made in two of the College buses.

Arriving at the Abbey at about 8:00 o'clock, the group attended Mass in the Abbey Church. Immediately following this, all went to the Convent near Clyde, where they attended the impressive Blessing of the Palms service in the St. Benedict Relic Chapel, and High Mass in the Chapel of Perpetual Adoration.

After the services, Sisters conducted the group through the chapels. The Relic Chapel contains relics (parts of the body or very intimate possessions) of all the Saints (including the Apostles) mentioned in the Litany of the Saints, as well as many other Saints. Beneath the altar is the complete relic of a child martyr, St. Beatrice, which was taken from one of the Roman catacombs.

In the Chapel of Perpetual Adoration is a magnificent high altar and many mosaics which are noted throughout the United States. The one of these which rises behind the altar is one of the largest in the United States. To the people from the College, the most interesting of all the mosaics was the one of The Last Supper, because its subject is most familiar to them. The stained glass windows in this chapel are very beautiful.

Upon returning to the Abbey, the group was allowed to visit the Conception College museum and library of rare volumes. The museum contains a notable collection of Indian handicraft. The library contains many very rare books and manuscripts, many of which were produced before the discovery of America.

This Benedictine community is one of the most unusual and interesting places in the Middle West. Though not an official annual event, the trip is made nearly every year by a group from this College.

Quad Highlights

Much interest has been shown by the NYA Resident Training Students about their work and their activities on the College campus. This fact is partially due to two main events which have taken place on the campus this week-end. Last Friday April 4, was parents' day for the Resident Training Boys. Many of the boys had their parents here with them that day as guests. The parents visited all the places of interest about the College campus and also saw the type of work which their sons have been doing here. They were guests of the boys at dinner in the Quad commons Friday, and some of them were overnight guests of their sons at the dormitories.

Senior day, also, which took place on Monday of this week at the College here, attracted the interest of the boys, and many of the Resident Training Students acted as guides.

Machine lathe work has started among the boys in the Machine shop work group, directed by Jewel Myers. These boys expect to take tool making on lathes as well as learning how to operate the various other types of machines located in the machine shop.

Some tables and other pieces of walnut furniture are being made and refinished in the wood working group which works in the mornings and is headed by David Crozier. Marlin Moorehouse and Stewart Chappell, two of the boys who work for Mr. Hayes on the paint crew, have done some painting of chairs and other college furniture lately.

No definite vacation has been established for the boys for Easter holidays, but it is believed that there will be one or more days of vacation for all the boys enrolled on the Resident Training plan.

worked Saturday and Monday for Roy Mayes in the Administration building cleaning the building before and after senior day.

A few of the boys who are interested very much in athletics, attended the track meet between the Bearcats and William Jewell College of Liberty. Many of the Resident Training boys have taken to the baseball diamond in the evenings after supper now, and one team has been partly organized to play in the intra-mural league. Several boys in the NYA have shown their ability as base ball and softball players on different teams the last several years, and good material is expected to be turned out on the teams that are organized.

Some of the Resident Training boys attended the Leap dance in the old west library. This dance which ended Leap week at the College, was a climax to what was a very pleasant week for the NYA boys. The boys went dressed in girls' clothing according to the rules of the dance, and every one who went was reported as saying he "had a swell time."

The principle of majority rule shall hold here as in the first election. In case of a second failure to elect, a third election shall be held, within two school days after the second, under majority rule.

Nursery Children Are Served Lunches Daily

Three little tables, twelve small children, three hostesses—That is the picture one may see any noon at the Nursery School. Each noon the children eat lunch which has been prepared for them by Olive Baggs, a sophomore home economics student here at the College. Miss Velma Cass, Ruth Kelly, and Mary Beth Brinegar act as hostesses at the tables.

This meal serving project has been in effect since the beginning of the spring quarter. Miss Marjorie Elliott, supervisor of the Home Economics Department of the High School, plans the menus that are to be prepared for the children. These menus are typed on cards and sent home to the parents before they are served to the children. In this way the parents can know better how to plan for the children's other meals.

The food is all prepared in the cooking unit of the Home Economics Department on second floor and sent down on the dumb waiter for serving at noon. The approximate cost of serving lunch is eleven cents a day per child.

Some of the children's foods are: Chocolate pudding, fruit jello, tapioca cream, vegetable soup, and chicken noodle soup.

Two clerks, each with a separate official student list, shall keep duplicate records of the voting by placing opposite the name of each voter, as called by the receiving judge, the same number carried by that ballot.
- The judges shall immediately after the polls have closed count the ballots and report the results to the Senate with whom they will intrust the old ballots.

Section 5. If during the process of the voting or counting the ballots, any question or irregularity should arise, not covered by the Constitution or By-Laws, the judges, assisted by the clerks, if necessary to reach an agreement, shall determine the matter.

The penalty for illegal voting and for acts definitely designed to thwart honest elections shall be, when such offenses have been satisfactorily proved to the Student Senate, denial to the person thus convicted, the right to vote for such a period as said Student Senate may decide.

Students who visited during the week-end in St. Joseph were: Mildred Niccum, Dora Miller, and Alice Roberts.
